ELLE

ELLE.

All of this time, I've been patient. I hoped you'd come to respect me and find that you could love me again. And I have turned my whole world upside down trying not to let you go. And now-

(ELLE reads her name. She is one of CALLAHAN's interns.)

ELLE.

Whoa. Is that my name? This has to be a mistake.

(squeals with delight)

Maybe I'm doing something right! Wow, I feel so much better than before! Oh, Warner. Sorry I've been bugging you, but I guess my best just wasn't good enough for you. Things are looking up though, and I'm excited to work with you! Hey, remember Spring Break last year, back in Cabo? We spent every night in that hot tub. You said nothing else could ever feel so right. Well this might!

ENID

(ENID stand up to introduce herself.)

ENID.

Enid Hoops. I did the peace corps where I built family clinics from mud and trees. I fought to clean up their rivers, save endangered birds, and then led a protest march against insensitive media.

(increasing in intensity)

ENID.

But now I'm here to be a lawyer because this country's out of whack, and only womyn have the power to fix it. We'll make the government stop hiding the truth, get more people voting for climate control, and really stick it to this phallocentric patriarchy!

PAULETTE

PAULETTE .

Whoah, whoah, whoah. Do you know the number one reason behind all bad hair decisions? Love! You may feel lost without him, but I can help you. I've been there before. When I need to relax, I just play this CD. I bought it for the store!

(PAULETTE plays New Agey Irish music.)

PAULETTE .

Mmmm. Isn't that relaxing? It's called "Celtic Moods". I play this whenever I feel lonely or hopeless. I just pretend like I'm in Ireland with Enya and her whales. I smell the grass after a rainstorm and stroll past those Irish farms. I meet a red-headed sailor named Brendan. And we dance. I met my ex, Dewey, in a bar. He told me he was from Ireland, so I moved in with him for years. But he dumped me for that slut, Kayla. He took my trailer and my dog. You know if he did that in Ireland, I'd be allowed to shoot him in the knees.

EMMETT

EMMETT .

I grew up in the Roxbury slums with just my mom. I got through law school by busting my ass. I was working two jobs, so forgive me for not weeping at your tale. You know what? I'd say there's a chip on my shoulder. With this chance, I gotta be driven as hell! And I can't take the day off, I just think of the day I can buy mom that great big house on the cape. You need a chip on your shoulder, little Miss Woods, comma, Elle. I know it might sound negative, but I'm just being honest. When you weren't born into privilege, you gotta work twice as hard. I haven't slept since 1998.

WARNER

WARNER.

Elle, I want you to know how happy you've made me. Every guy dreams about finding a girl like you. I can see that we both know why we're here. It's time to get serious...with you.

(beat)

My life has been planned out since I was a kid and as a future attorney, I'm going to need someone serious by my side. But, Pooh-Bear, that's why you and I...should break-up. I'm sorry, Elle, but if I'm going to be a senator when I'm thirty, I need to marry a Jackie, not a- Marilyn. Somebody classy who's not too tacky. Okay, that came out wrong. I thought that you'd understand. Check, please.

Video Side 6

CALLAHAN

CALLAHAN.

We have a lot to cover. Meet our new client, Brooke Whyndam. You can laugh, but she got rich off her DVD: "Whyp Your Way To Tighter Buns." She swears she is happily married to a sixty-year old millionaire. She was found by his daughter covered in his blood. If Brooke took a plea, I'd have her out in three to four, but she claims she did not do it. Hands, who thinks she's guilty? Okay, here's where you kids come in: I don't speak MTV. We need that alibi. She might listen to her peers. If there's a brain in that head, tell it that I'm her only chance to win. It's a plea or the chair.
